Offa's Dyke †

Kit Johnstone, Ph.D.
Transpennine, 2006

2 Yet merciless river you found,
Pulled your leg here and there around;
Threw you off banks, private property,
Nettling bogs of malicious money.

Kit Johnstone, Ph.D.
Wilderness, 2010

† Roman troops withdrew AD 383, then the Romans left Britain AD 446, and then King Offa of Mercia built the dyke from 782 to 785, which now bears his name.

AB © 2010, Kit Johnstone Tyabandha, Ph.D.